Inspire U.S. and its state programs are committed to protecting the privacy and security of individuals we interact with in person and online. Outlined below is our privacy policy for personal information collected through voluntarily submitted printed materials and our websites.

What personally identifiable information is collected?

Visitors to our websites may supply personally identifiable information (such as name, address, date of birth, email, and telephone number) for various purposes. These purposes include filling out an RSVP to attend an event, signing up to volunteer, signing a school up for a state Voter Registration award or pledging or registering to vote. Inspire U.S. does not collect any personal information from individuals unless they have voluntarily provided it to us.

How is this information used?

When an individual supplies personal information for a specific purpose, we use that information to provide the service or information requested. Information collected on Inspire Pledge to Vote card is used to communicate with individuals about voter registration deadlines, opportunities to publicly interact with elected officials and/or candidates (candidate forums, community meetings, etc.), election-related information, and updated voter information provided by nonpartisan organizations or agencies, including the Secretary of State and the local Board of Elections. All individuals who complete pledge cards can choose to opt in to receiving information from Inspire U.S.

In regards to get out the vote practices, Inspire U.S. will contact students who opt-in to receive notifications up to 4 times before an election. Typically this is through phone call, email, or text. Inspire U.S. does not text blast students unless they opt-in to receive these messages from us. Additionally, Inspire U.S. does not make use of robocalls.

Inspire U.S. does not sell or share email addresses or other information with outside sources.

If our information practices change in the future, Inspire U.S. will notify individuals before changes are implemented and provide individuals with the opportunity to opt out of these new practices.

All of the information voluntarily supplied by individuals for Inspire U.S. related activities is stored on a secure database. Inspire U.S. does not sell or distribute this data under any condition. Additionally, our database system does not sell or share this data under any condition.
